Have you a "silent" musical instrument in your home? Unless it's anchored there by sentiment, let a "for sale" ad in the Bonanza find a buyer for it.

If it's of exceptional value at the price, it's sure to be advertised in the Bonanza, else the merchant would be hopelessly unprogressive.

DEPUTY COUNTY TREASURER RETURNS FROM COAST TRIP

Mrs. R. F. Gilbert, deputy county treasurer, who spent the last few weeks in San Francisco, is regaining the use of her hand. At the time of her departure for the coast Mrs. Gilbert was suffering from a severe pain in her right wrist. She feared that she was suffering from a mild form of paralysis. Specialists diagnosed her case as rheumatism and she spent some time in a hospital securing treatment for the ailment. She has practically recovered the use of her wrist and will shortly return to Tonopah and resume her duties in the county treasurer's office.

25,000 COPIES OF FOLDER WRITTEN BY TONOPAH MAN TO BE DISTRIBUTED BY S. P. CO.

The Southern Pacific land department has just begun distributing 25,000 copies of a folder designed to interest eastern farmers and investors in Nevada. These folders will be distributed at every office of the Southern Pacific and associated lines from Atlantic to the British north-west, and undoubtedly they will result in awakening interest in the Cinderella of western states which is receiving plenty of gratuitous advertising.

Accompanying the folder is a vivid picture of the opportunities offered willing workers and men with capital in almost every county of the commonwealth. This is written by John C. Martin, formerly editor of the Goldfield Tribune, who has developed some new and pertinent facts for the guidance of those who have not been keeping pace with the growth of this state. The story embraces about 3000 words and is submitted under the caption of "Nevada, the Land of Fulfillment." The statistics are predigested from the contents of the "Handbook of Nevada," in preparation by the same writer under the auspices of the land department of the Southern Pacific.

Following are some of the interesting features of the folder:

Eighty-three per cent of Nevada farms are free from debt. No other state can approximate this immunity from heavy interest burdens.

With $15,500,000 deposited in state and national banks, or a per capita wealth of over $195 for every man, woman and child, poverty is a negligible factor. It is all the more remarkable that the leading farming counties have the largest deposits. Elko banks report deposits aggregating $2,067,166; Winnemucca, Lovelock and Quinn River banks hold for depositors something over $1,957,500, and Churchill county, on the Truckee-Carson reclamation project has on hand $226,233.43 at a time when ranchers are still waiting for returns on their crops. These reports do not reflect any hardship. This does not include the millions distributed by mining companies to non-resident stockholders. The gold and silver production of Nevada, according to the last United States census, is $478,14 per capita, or 225 per cent greater than that of the next nearest mineral producing state. The output of gold, silver, lead, copper and zinc last year from Nevada mines was valued at $34,000,000.

So good for the money extracted from underground. Let us take a view of the surface, which is a thousand times more interesting and profitable. Here there is no exhaustion. Acreage increases and crops multiply constantly. Last year farm products aggregated $6,000,000, not counting sales of wool valued at $1,350,000. On Nevada farms January 1, 1912, there were hogs representing $1,969,000, and the hog industry is only in its infancy; sheep, many of them of the purest strains, worth $5,487,000 and cows and other cattle valued at $12,197,000.

At the California state fair at Sacramento, held in September, 1912, the winnings of the exhibit by the Nevada agricultural college totaled 38 firsts, 14 seconds, 11 thirds, and 13 championships. At the same fair last year Nevada won the prize for the largest exhibit by a state institution.

In wheat Nevada leads with 32.5 bushels per acre for spring planting of a farm price of 95 cents a bushel, making $30.87½ per acre. Winter wheat yielded 23 bushels, or $21.80 per acre.

Montana, the nearest competitor, is credited with 31.7 bushels, but with a farm valuation of 77 cents a bushel, the crop was worth only $23.87 an acre. Idaho produced 31.5 bushels, but as the market price was but 66 cents, the producer received only $20.79 per acre.

In barley, Nevada leads with 40 bushels to the acre, with a farm value of 81 cents, netting $32.00 per acre. Utah and Idaho are the only two states which had a greater yield per acre, but the crop value was more than offset by the difference in prices on the farm. The Utah farmer received 66 cents a bushel, or $28.38 per acre, and the Idaho farmer, who harvested 42 bushels, received 70 cents, or at the rate of $29.40 per acre.

In oats, Nevada again claims the trophy, for she was only excelled by Montana with a production of 49.8 bushels, valued at 40 cents, or $19.92 per acre, while the Nevada yield was 45 bushels or at the rate of $32.40 per acre.

Alfalfa is the uncrowned king of the farm when it comes to comparing Nevada with other states. Nevada raises 2.40 tons per acre of an average value of $9.50 per ton, or $22.80 per acre. The Montana farmer is content with 2.00 per acre, and the Colorado farmer thinks he is lucky when he stacks up at the rate of $18.60 per acre. Utah harvests $22.50, Idaho $23.56, and California $19.07 per acre from alfalfa. These figures mean much to the stock-grower and lamb finisher, as it is also conceded that there is more nutrition in Nevada hay than that of other states. For feeding it brings results to the bank.

Authentic reports of hogs raised on nothing but alfalfa show that they realized 5½ cents a pound at the age of 12 months, equivalent to $25 a ton for hay. In Moapa valley, in southern Nevada, there is a record of 12 to 14 tons from six cuttings which extended over 10 months of the year.

AMUSEMENTS

Butler Theater

Tonight's program at the Butler will be one of the most interesting shown in this theater for quite awhile. Pathe Weekly of Current Events will be the feature. This is No. 39 and shows Woodrow Wilson, the president-elect, reviewing the Spanish-American war veterans, an interesting ball game between New York and Brooklyn and many other interesting views. "A Bit of the River Lee in Ireland," a scenic picture; "The Godmother," a Vitaphone comedy featuring Marshall P. Wilder; "The House of His Master," a Selig story of retribution and reformation, and "The Dam Builder," by Bannister Merwin. This is a story with a strong dramatic tension, depicting how a revengeful foreman was prevented from blowing up a big dam by a young girl. The settings are particularly effective.

Tomorrow's program: "The Fighting Instinct," "His Life," "Passing Gypsies," and "Memories of Patlo Day."
